

KATHERINE E. RAMSEY began her career as a Richmond, Virginia, trusts and estates attorney in 1998, first with Mezzullo & McCandlish LLP, and then Mezzullo & Guare, PLC. She joined Hunton & Williams LLP in 2004, where she practiced for 12 years before moving her practice to Virginia Estate & Trust Law, PLC. Katherine enjoys assisting high-net worth families with their estate planning and administration needs. Her experience also includes preparing prenuptial agreements, advising fiduciaries in the proper administration of trusts and estates and providing subject matter expertise to other attorneys in fiduciary litigation and will contests.

As a Past Chair of the Virginia Bar Association's Section on Wills, Trusts and Estates and an active member of its Legislative Committee, Katherine has appeared often before the Virginia General Assembly in support or opposition to bills of interest to the estate planning community. She is also a Fellow of the American College of Trusts and Estates Counsel (ACTEC), and has been recognized by her peers through inclusion among the Best Lawyers in America, Virginia Business magazine's Legal Elite and Virginia Super Lawyers. She is a current member of the Richmond Estate Planning Council and the Richmond Trust Administrators' Council, and has previously served as a director of the Virginia Gift Planning Council.

Katherine lectures frequently on a variety of trust and estate topics at continuing legal education seminars. She was also a co-author of the Annual Survey of Wills, Trusts and Estates legal developments for the University of Richmond Law Review from 2011 to 2021. Katherine graduated from the University of Virginia School of Law in 1998. She received her undergraduate degree from Virginia Tech (BA, International Studies) in 1986, as well as a master's degree from Boston University (MS, Management) in 1988.
